USC Voted Nation's No. 1 Team

2 ND BASE COACH

By J. F. McKALE

LAST YEAR a prominent college baseball coach had the op-posing team on the ropes at the end of the fifth inning by a score of 14-4. This veteran mentor thought ten runs was, with four innings to go, a safe margin. He substituted almost a full team of bench sitters who had had little opportunity to play so far that season.

THE COACH believed the game was for boys; he wanted to give all his kids a chance to play. This second team lost an important game 14-16. He wasn't exactly as happy as the TV youngster who runs into the room and says, 'Look Mom, no cavities.'

SUCH AN INCIDENT happens often. Many a coach has experienced this Sunday punch - but it occurs just ONCE in his life. Strategy like the above is the best way of having a hard time, and any coach who has been through such an ordeal never forgets it. After such an experience these martyrs generally maintain their first string lineup until the ninth inning when their team is leading 20-0. Possibly, a second pitcher is given a chance in the late innings.

OTHER COLLEGE team games like football and basketball have a liberal substitution rule. We would be the last one to follow football's example of using of-fense and defense teams — nine batters and nine fielders. How ever, something should be done to allow a college baseball coach more latitude in substitutions. The game is not played for the boys when with a bench of 20 to 25 players only about 50 per cent have a chance to compete.

THE HIGH SCHOOL Federation, the NAIA, and the National Junior College Association have more reasonable substitution rules. College baseball would take a wise step in modifying its regulations without losing any ground.

THE ABOVE mentioned baseball organizations have a rule substantially as follows: They allow a player withdrawn from the game to re-enter once, provided his place in the batting order will not bring him to bat sooner than if he had remained in the game. In the case of a pitcher, the player may not re-enter before three or more batters have finished their turns at bat. To us, this makes sense.

THE ONLY ABGUMENT We have heard against this innovation is that the professionals do not allow such procedures. When (Continued on Page 4)

Gophers Appear Set For Playoffs

KALAMAZOO, Mich.-Three of the four District 4 playoff entrants were all but officially decided as COLLEGIATE BASEBALL nt to press this week.

In the Big Ten it looked like Minnesota would romp home champion. Only a miracle could provide Illinois with three straight victories and the Gophers with three straight losses.

After last weekend's play, the Gophers of Dick Siebert were playing at a 10-1 pace. Lee Eilbracht's Fighting Illini were at 8-4 and had an outside chance if those three losses and victories could be recorded.

In the Mid-American Conference, the champion appeared to be either Western Michigan or

Ohio University. The two clubs begin a two-game series today and a sweep for either club would provide the flag. Going into the series, both were 7-1. Ohio had

Dist. Eight Playoff Still In Doubt

By BOB LAW and GEORGE WATSON

LOS ANGELES - District 8 NCAA playoff berths are still un-decided, Chairman Rod Dedeaux of Southern California announced. However, tentative plans have been formulated subject to change as league champions are crowned.

Since defending NCAA cham-pion SC is ineligible to partici-pate in this year's tourney at Omaha, even though the Trojans are leading the southern division of the Pacific Coast Conference, better known as the CIBA, the men of Troy are automatically out of the picture.

Clubs under consideration by Dedeaux and his committee are Fresno State and San Diego State of the California Collegiate Ath-letic Association, Santa Clara of the West Coast Athletic Conference, and Stanford, Washington, Oregon State and Oregon of the Pacific Coast Conference. An un-named independent in the Oregon and Washington area is also un-der consideration.

Although Dedeaux and his se-lection committee are uncertain of the exact first round teams that will participate at this time, one thing is definite and that is the lineup for the finals.

The winner of the PCC playoffs will tangle on June 5-6 with either the WCAC, CCAA or north-ern independent for the right to participate in the collegiate

"World Series" at Omaha June

However three league champions have been decided. USC won the California Intercollegiate Baseball Association champion-ship. Los Angeles State, beating San Diego State in a doublehead er, upset the NAIA champions to win the CCAA title. And Whittier came off with the SCIAC championship.

DISTRICT 8 NOTES: Santa Barbara's Ron Huesser leads the CAA in hitting with a nifty .460 average. . . . Ron is a catcher. Hard hitting Jerry Wayt of San Diego has a .327 batting average, but his greatest asset is the RBI department where he leads the CCAA with 39. . . Teammate Jerry Smith, hitting .391, is second with 37.... Other top hitters are Carl Evans of Long Beach State (.405), Roger Hull, Long Beach State (.384), and Augie Carrido, Fresno State (.384). . . .

Houston won the first game, 1-0, in 10 innings on Bob Peters five-hit pitching. Bradley tied the playoff with a 10-8 victory in the second game. In the final game Pat Kelley hurled a nifty five-hitter to shut out Houston, 6-0. Catcher Cecil Raybourne hit a three-run homer to assure the victory.

The victory moved Bradley into the NCAA District 5 play-

Aggies Win SWC Crown

Texas A. & M. Tops Texas With Eight Consecutive Conference Victories

By BOB HALFORD

AUSTIN, Tex.-A combination of eight straight Texas AMM victories and four successive University of Texas defeats earned the Aggies their sixth Southwest Conference baseball championship and with it a spot in the NCAA District Six playoffs opposite Arizona.

Tom Chandler, coaching his first Aggle team, did a masterful ob bringing his team of powerhitters from three games back of the Longhorns to the title. As usually happens among champions, the Aggies won the close ones while Texas and third-place Rice were dropping the narrow decisions.

Rice was the biggest sufferer. The Owls lost seven SWC games all told and six of them were by one run. Texas dropped five, two by one run and the other three by two runs. A&M won by one fun five times and by two on three more occasions. All the Aggie luck wasn't good, however. They also lost four SWC games

The eight-game Aggie winning streak included twin victories over both Texas and Rice. Percy Sanderson and 6-6 Wayne Schaper came along especially well to-ward the season's end.

Aggie hitting leaders were First Baseman-Pitcher Bo Paradowski (.333 for the full senson and .389 in conference), Catcher Gary Herrington (.328 and .364) and Outfielder Cliff Davis (.325 and .318). Byron Barber, a .202 hitter for the full year, hit six home runs, five of them in SWC play. His 22 RBI's were high for the team.

Texas, which won 12 straight games before losing to Rice two weeks ago, went into a dismal slump, getting only 12 hits and eight runs in its last 27 innings.

The second place finish for the Longhorns was only the ninth time in 44 years that Texas has won or tied for the SWC title. The Aggies stand next to Texas with 32 titles and three ties with six championships and two ties.

ACC Ends Deadlock

DURHAM, N.C.—The Atlantic Coast Conference finished the 1959 season in a three-way deadlock

Clemson, the 1958 champion, Clemson, the 1958 champion, tied with Wake Forest and North Carolina. A three-team playoff was scheduled and by press-time Clemson had won the right to meet the Tarheels. Clemson tripped Wake Forest, 4-2, in the opening playoff game.

First North Carolina and thea
Wake Forest blew chances to win the championship on the last two days of the regular season. Coach Walter Rabb's Carolina team needed only to beat Wake Forest for undisputed honors. But the Deacons' sophomore righthander Robert Plemmons pitched a strong six-hitter and Wake Forest derailed the Tar Heels by 3-1.

Then it was Wake Forest's turn to fall flat. In the final regular season contest, the Deacons of

Coach Gene Hooks drew cellerdwelling N. C. State . . . and it looked easy. But Vic Sorrell's State team scored a smashing 9-2 win and threw the race into an unprecidented three-team tie.

Wake Forest, Carolina and
Clemson finished with identical 9-5 records.

North Carolina was the hottest team down the stretch. After winning only two of their first six games, the Tar Heels won eight Leader in the late surge was righthander Wayne Young. He won four games the last two weeks and finished with a 7-2 record.

But Young and Carolina stumbled in the finale against Wake Forest. This game was played on Carolina's diamond at Chapel Hill before 3,000 fans.

Wake Forest routed Young in the sixth and went on to win be-hind the crafty Plemmons.

The N.C. State hero in the vic-tory over Wake Forest was Wil-Carruthers, a strong-armed righthander from Greensboro, N.C. He lost his shutout in the 9-2 game in the eighth when Buster Ledford of the Deacs hit a two-run homer.

Meanwhile, Clemson finished its regular season with a smashing win over arch-rival South Carolina.

Clemson and North Carolina had tied for regular season honors a year ago and Clemson won in a playoff by 4-1. The Tigers then advanced to the second round of the College World Se ries before bowing out.

DISTRICT THREE NOTES George Washington's Colonials won the Southern Conference. The victory was clinched when Dennis Hill, undefeated this season, pitched a 73 victory over Virginia Tech. . . East Carolina leads in the North State League with a 10-0 record and 12-3 for ti over-all season. Elon College is in second place.

MORE FUEL FOR THE FIRE - In March the Cleveland Indians signed Third Baseman Gene Leek off the University of Arizona campus seven games after the 1959 season had begun. . . . Leek, an excellent pro prospect, is riding the er bench most of the early season with the Indians.

In May Cleveland signed Al Luplow, outstanding outfielder, off the Michigan State campus with only 10 days left in the Big Ten playing season. Luplow, picking up over $25,-000 in bonus money; will be assigned to North Platte, Neb., in the rookie league.

Quote John Kobs of Michigan State after the signing: "That shows you how inconsistent those birds can be. We just have 10 days left in the Big Ten season. You'd think they would at least let him finish out the season with us. We have been trying to get the pros to see the light, but it's the same old story all the time."

COLLEGE DIVISION — Charley Gelbert of Lafayette College points up the confusion in District 2. With many colleges and universities competing, selection of playoff entries gets more difficult each year.

Charley suggests a university division and a college division.

And that could come before long. A college division of the Collegiate World Series should come into existence with- around. in a few years under NCAA direction.

BITS O' SPORTS . . . Bobby Klaus of Illinois set a new Big Ten conference record of 10 assists in one game. The Illinois shortstop, brother of the Baltimore Oriole infielder, set the record as Illinois defeated Purdue, 4-3, in a 12-inning game. . . . Add signings: Tom Schwaner, 20-year-old shortstop for Loyola University of New Orleans. Schwaner received a $50,000 bonus from the Cardinals. . . . M. C. Resnick, baseball coach of Kent State University, wonders whether his ball club has set a new record for double plays. Kent State pulled off 20 double plays and a triple in 17 games. The club had only two games without double plays.

WHY DOES the AACBC have to follow the professional line? Anything new would add interest to our game, and we believe college baseball fans would welcome and appreciate something different if it is well thought out. Something like a liberal substitution is worth a try.

ANOTHER STUPID rule which we have recently adopted from the professional code is the one that requires a player to bring his glove to the bench when his team is at bat. We would like to hear from any one who has ever seen a fielder's glove decide a ball game.

Coaching Box

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Today's Coaching Box is written by Bill Theunissen, head baseball coach at Central Michigan College since 1953. Bill played three sports at Central Michigan then went on to get his master's degree and also his doctorate. He's also an outstanding amateur golfer. His Coaching Box topic is the cut-off play).

By BILL THEUNISSEN

, Baseball Coach, Central Michigan College

Every team should be prepared with a cut-off man on outfield throws to third base and to home plate. The cut-off man not only acts as a target for the thrower, but also im> poses a threat to base runners trying to take an extra base.

OUTFIELD THROW TO THIRD BASE:

- 1. Cut-off man is the shortstop.
- Shortstop is approximately 45 feet from third base and in direct line with the throw.
- 3. Shortstop listens to instructions from third baseman.
- Team should be prepared for this when: a. There is a runner on first base (may be other runners on base also) and a single is hit to the outfield.

b. There is a runner on second base (may be other runners on base also) and a fly-ball is hit to the outfield.

OUTFIELD THROW TO HOME PLATE:

BILL THEUNISSEN

- 1. Cut-off man may be first baseman, third baseman, or pitcher. Probably the commonest method is to use the first baseman on throws from rightfield and centerfield and the third baseman on throws from leftfield. A second method, and the one that we usually use at Central Michigan, has the first baseman as the cut-off man on all throws to home - this avoids much indecision in the infield and the four infielders have the same assignment, no matter which field the throw is coming from. Some coaches, especially in high school where the pitcher is often the best all-around ballplayer, let the pitcher act as the cut-off man. The biggest disadvantage of this is the elimination of a back-up man behind the catcher.
- 2. Cut-off man is approximately 50 feet from home plate (a little short of the mound) and in direct line with the thrower. (If the outfielder throws with a threequarter delivery then the cut-off man should compensate for this by standing a step out to the sideallow for ball hopping to the side when it strikes the ground).
- Cut-off man listens to instructions from the catcher. These must be emphatic, loud, and in time for the cut-off man to have time to react to the command.
- 4. Team should be prepared for this when:
 - a. Runner on second base (may be other runners on base also) and a single is hit to the outfield.
 - b. Runner on third base (with other runners on base) and a fly-ball is hit to the outfield.
 - c. Runner on first base (may be other runners on base also) and there is an extra-base hit to the outfield. Many coaches do not use a cut-off man in this situation, feeling that the relay man is close enough to make a cut-off man impractical.

The team must be schooled in a scheme of movement whereby all infielders know exactly where to go — bases will be covered in case the runner tries to take an extra base and the throw is cut-off.

The cut-off man should be fully aware of the game situation — the inning, the score, and the relative importance of the various runners. He cuts off throws to make the sure put-out, especially when the runner cut-off is the tying or winning run.

Outfielders should be given a great deal of throwing practice and made to see the importance of having their throws low enough to be intercepted by the cut-off man.

Florida Coach Urges SEC To Adopt Summer Baseball

By JIM MINTER Atlanta Journal Staff Writer

ATLANTA - Dave Fuller, University of Florida baseball coach has offered a suggestion which, if adopted, would put the college game on solid ground in the Southeastern Conference.

Fuller wants the 12 member institutions to field teams during the summer quarter, thus making baseball a sport on equal schedule basis with football and basketball. Fuller believes this could be done without excessive travel or expense. He proposes to chop the conference into three divisions of natural rivals.

It seems logical that college baseball would pay its own way if Fuller's plan is brought to reality. During this season, Georgia, Georgia Tech and Auburn have drawn about as many fans as the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern Assn.

Tigers Forfeit League Games

By BOB RICHARDSON

KANSAS CITY-Missouri's hopes for a repeat championshipin the Big Eight, already dimmed by numerous rainouts, faded intocomplete oblivion last week when the Tigers were forced to forfeit seven league victories because of an ineligible player. Coach HI Simmons and his contending crew were at Ames,

Iowa, for a series with Iowa State when the word came through from conference headquarters that Gene Orf, slugging sophomore outfielder, was ineligible.

Until Missouri took the initia tive Tuesday and announced that it would forfeit all loop games in which Orf had played, the decision was to be made at a con-ference meeting in Norman, Okla. It was deemed a certainty that the Big 8 would have taken the same action.

Simmons, who guided Missouri to the 1958 College World Series finals at Omaha, was visibly moved when he first heard of the announcement. He was at a loss to explain how the mix-up

"According to information given me by our registrar's office in February, the boy was eligi-ble," commented Simmons. "In the latter part of March, I sent a list of our boys to Reaves Peters (conference commissioner) and I assumed everything was okay."

According to Simmons, Orf's ineligibility is based on the fact the switch-hitting .389 native of Portage Des Sioux, Mo., had only 22 hours of passing grades for the previous two semesters. Un-der conference rules, the mini-

The majority of the New England colleges close the books on baseball Saturday, May 23, al-though some, like Holy Cross, Harvard, Yale, Amherst and Williams, play anywheres from two to eight June games once final exams are out of the way.

League races are still up for grabs. Brown and Dartmouth are locked in a three-way tie with Army in the Eastern Intercollegi-ate circuit, Norwich University's fence-busting crew figures to give Vermont headaches in the Vermont loop. Maine and Colby probably will fight it out for the Maine Conference crown, and Wesleyan has the lead in defense of the Little Three pennant. Independently, Jack Barry's Holy Cross team stands 6-2 and will be better with more than half the schedule still to be played. Springfield College is again one of the best around.

However, this seems to be a year of ups and downs in New England for most clubs. To date, Connecticut has been the lone exception but Maine, Springfield Massachusetts lie ahead for the Uconns before they can en-tertain thoughts of post-season

GRAND JUNCTION Colo.-Pre-tournament guessing established Phoenix College and Northeastern Oklahoma A&M as the teams to beat in the Na-tional Junior College Athletic Association baseball championships May 21-24.

Phoenix backers pointed to the Bears' longer schedule, made possible by good early spring weather, and impressive 26-7 record.

There was indication, however, that any of the other six teams in the draw could make it interesting for the favorites.

Mesa College will have the distinct advantage of playing at home in this city's scenic Lincoln Park stadium. Paris, Tex., College has emerged as the best of the bunch from a real collegiate baseball hotbed; Wilmington, N.C., College rides in on a 16-3 record; Carbon, College of Price, Utah, has won 10 of its last 11 games, and Montgomery College of Takoma Park, Md., is 9-2 and champion of a four-state Middle Atlantic region.

A full week after Georgia Tech cinched the Eastern title, the Western division remained un-settled. Alabama and Ole Miss' were still battling each other and the reign for the berth against the Jackets. The edge goes to the Rebels as Alabama trailed with an 8-5 record against Ole Miss' 8-3.

Tech finished 11-4 in conference play and 15-4 overall. Au-burn and Florida wound up in second with identical 84 records. The tight, three-way battle to the wire was not decided until the last day of the Eastern Division season, Auburn knocked off Flor-ida and Tech dropped Georgia to end the confusion.

Georgia's 8-12 record and fifth place finish was the lowest for the Bulldogs in a decade and the 11-18 overall represented the first time Jim Whatley has not enjoyed

Surprising Pitt Eyeing Playoffs

PITTSBURGH — Pitt's surprising baseball team has an ex-cellent chance to make the district playoffs.

The Panthers lost their first game, 7-4, to Virginia, but then won nine straight before losing to Navy, 9-8. Pitt then got back on the winning side by beating West Virginia, 6-3.

Omaha is a long way from Pittsburgh but if Coach Bobby Lewis' boys do make the trip, they must rate as a strong dark-horse because of excellent pitching.

Lewis has three front-line hurlers, Bill Hamilton (3-0), Bob Conti (3-1) and Dick Wirth (3-0). Pitt isn't a strong hitting team and is just above average defensively. One of the great clutch players is Centerfielder Bill Kaliden, who also was a quarterback on the football team. Some say Kaliden is the guy who cost Terry Brennan his job. Kaliden scored the winning touchdown against the Irish with 11 seconds remaining. Pitt won, 29-26. If Notre Dame had won that game, it would bave given Brennan a 7-3 slate.

Well, Kaliden still is winning games. He hit a homer to beat Westminster, 6-5, and he drove in the winning runs against Indiana State in both ends of a double-
